Dock Strike Spreads To Blanket East

Move Intended To Prod Intervention Of Federal Agency

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—The International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), today extended its six-day New York waterfront strike to all Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports. The general strike call blanketed 100,000 men in 35 of the busiest ports on the continent.

The move was intended to prod the federal government into stepping in. In Washington, officials said they had no immediate plans to enter the case. However, they added, a general strike could lead to Taft-Hartley law intervention, as it did two years ago.

Began To Falter
The million-dollar-a-day strike of 30,000 New York longshoremen had begun to falter when ILA President William V. Bradley issued a general strike call to 400 locals.

It was the first time in several years that Gulf of Mexico coast ports were included in the ILA's sporadic East Coast waterfront wars.

Sympathy walkouts from New England to Virginia last week were short lived, and New York dockers were battling alone when Bradley ordered the strike extended.

An ILA spokesman said a chief reason for extending the strike was to create "a national issue and take it out of the hands of the governors of New York and New Jersey, who are conducting beauty contests and visiting state fairs."

Ignored Two Pleas
The ILA had ignored two pleas by New York's Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman for an immediate end to the strike—which is not against shippers but against a New York-New Jersey waterfront policing agency which the ILA wants abolished.

"We want action and we believe the federal government can do it," the union spokesman added.

In 1953, President Eisenhower invoked the Taft-Hartley law for the first time after taking office to end a five-day East Coast strike of 65,000 ILA men. The federal law provides for a strike armistice.

The union called off the current strike against the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission for a brief period last night. Then the ILA reinstated the walkout five hours later.

70 Ships Tied Up
More than 70 ships have been tied up here since the strike began Sept. 7. However, big passenger liners have continued to use the port without any great inconvenience. Loss of business in diverted cargo is estimated by shippers at a million dollars a day.

In its long feud with the Waterfront Commission, the ILA has sworn to obliterate the pier policing agency. The union claims the commission is out to wreck the ILA with harsh and discriminatory practices—abuse of subpoenas, harassment of longshoremen, abolition of traditional dock hiring methods and unduly severe treatment of dockers with criminal records.

Club Shown Sex Exhibit

BISMARCK, N. D., Sept. 12 (AP)—For 45 minutes today members of the Bismarck Lions Club watched the showing of two sex films and a display of slides of photographs and cartoons about sexual activity.

Then members of the club filled out ballots giving their opinions as to whether the showings were decent or indecent (1) for youth, and (2) for adults.

The exhibits had been rounded up by the Senate subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency.

Sen. William Langer (R-ND), a member of the club and of the subcommittee, asked the club to view the exhibits and give their opinions.

The club's directors will meet Thursday night, President J. S. Fevold said, to tabulate the ballots and then send them to the subcommittee in Washington.

Adenauer-Red Meetings Stall

Conferences Produce No Results

MOSCOW, Sept. 12 (AP)—A West German delegate said tonight Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's conference with Soviet leaders to establish normal relations between their governments has produced nothing.

Carlo Schmid, Socialist member of Adenauer's group, spoke to reporters outside the Kremlin palace after a lavish two-hour banquet where Adenauer exchanged smiling toasts with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist Party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

"The results of this conference are absolutely zero," Schmid said.

Just Where Started

Earlier, German press spokesman Felix von Eckardt commented: "We are now just where we started."

During the banquet's continuing display of cordiality, the Russians toasted "normal diplomatic relations." But Adenauer's toast was to "good friendly relations and not only diplomatic relations, since diplomats are not always good friends."

"Therefore," said the Chancellor, "I drink to the welfare of the Soviet people and the German people."

Adenauer and Bulganin met during the afternoon to hear separate reports on an earlier meeting of their foreign ministers which lasted an hour and a half. There was no news briefing after the Adenauer-Bulganin session because the Russians and Germans apparently could not agree on a statement to the press.

Of the foreign ministers' talk, Von Eckardt said no progress had been made. But Soviet press chief Leonid Ilyichev said that from the fact that the ministers decided to submit reports "one can judge there were some results."

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and Molotov had been instructed to discuss concrete proposals to be presented to their heads of government, taking into account the positions already outlined.

Journey Said Important

Bulganin's toast at tonight's banquet was the first. He called Adenauer's journey to Moscow important to world peace and said, "I am of the opinion that everything ends well. With patience and work, you can do everything."

As the banquet ended, Adenauer and Bulganin embraced. But it was clear that they and their aides had got nowhere toward achieving the conference goal. Adenauer was invited here to discuss "normalization" of relations between Moscow and Bonn. At his insistence, the release of German war prisoners and reunification of Germany were added as subjects of the conference and it was these issues, especially the war prisoners, on which the meeting stalled.

The Chancellor and Bulganin may meet again tomorrow, but the Germans have arranged to leave for home Wednesday.

Former Clerk Found Hanged In Closet

OXON HILL, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—Charles Buxton Coffin, 80, a native of Batavia, N.Y., and a former chief deputy clerk of the Federal District Court in Washington, was found hanged yesterday in a bedroom closet of his home.

Army Drops 48 Collaborating Cases

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Army said today it has dropped the cases of 48 more former prisoners of war suspected of collaborating with their Communist captors in Korea. Investigations disclosed no basis for action.

This brings to 295 the number of cases in which Army investigators found insufficient evidence for action out of an original total of 426.

Gaston Gets Coast Guard Commission After Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—N. Pierre Gaston, 23, clinched his commission in the Coast Guard today despite the fact that his mother was once affiliated with organizations on the subversive list.

Announcing its decision to give Gaston an ensign's commission after a four-month delay, the Coast Guard said it had found nothing against his personal character and integrity.

"I'm very happy," Gaston said when he heard the news.

He was graduated eighth in his class from the Coast Guard officer training school at New London, Conn., last April but his commission was held up pending an investigation of his mother's background. Meanwhile Gaston has been serving as an apprentice seaman in the Coast Guard headquarters here.

At a series of hearings held in June, Gaston's mother, Mrs. Jeanne Grisez of San Francisco, testified she was no longer affiliated with the organizations cited by the Coast Guard and did not know they were alleged to be subversive at the time she was connected with them. The groups included the Independent Progressive Party and the American-Russian Institute.

"In keeping with the basic American principles of fair play and justice, Mr. Gaston's case has been decided on his own merits as an adult individual," the Coast Guard said in a statement.

"Mr. Gaston's character and integrity as well as his scholastic record and overall capabilities are of the highest order. There is every indication that he as an individual would prove to be a loyal and competent commissioned officer of the U. S. Coast Guard."

"It has been found that Mr. Gaston's relationship to his mother has not been close, especially during his scholastic and more mature years. In fact, the mother-son relationship was less close than in the ordinary case and no improper influence exists."

"All these findings led to the clear conclusion that the commissioning of Mr. Gaston in the Coast Guard would be in the best interests of the country."

Probe Begins On Readiness Of Air Force

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—An intensive investigation of this nation's military preparedness, with heaviest emphasis on "the size and composition" of the Air Force, is under way by the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, it was disclosed today.

The scope of the inquiry, which has been proceeding quietly for several months and includes profits made by aircraft manufacturers holding defense contracts, was outlined in a factual report by the subcommittee to its parent Armed Services Committee.

He is chairman of the host committee of the Instrument Society of America, which today opened its 10th annual instrument-automation conference and exhibit.

The subcommittee, headed by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, confined the report to a bare recital of profits made since 1942 by 21 major aircraft companies which turn out the bulk of aircraft for the military. It deliberately avoided drawing any conclusions at this time.

Johnson said in an accompanying statement: "... obviously, we cannot make an objective report on America's military strength unless we have a full appreciation of the economic factors behind that strength...we thought the public should have the benefit of the cold facts now."

The Americans who met for an hour and 45 minutes in the Kremlin with Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin are Sens. Milton R. Young (R-ND), Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), Henry C. Dworshak (R-Idaho), J. Allen Frear Jr. (D-Del.) and George W. Malone (R-Nev.).

Young said after the conference: "I asked him (Khrushchev) if he thought it was possible for the United States and the Soviet Union to engage in an exchange of agricultural goods. Then the discussion widened to include the possible exchange of other goods."

"Khrushchev said it was 'not only possible but desirable' for the establishment of trade relations. He also told us that the ban on trade with Russia had helped the nation to develop its own industry."

Dworshak said both Russian leaders emphasized they felt trade with the United States was not vital to Russia but could engender good political relations.

Kefauver asked if the Russians would sell manganese, needed in steel making, to the United States. The Russians replied: "Yes, you want to buy our manganese—and then sell us toys."

The senators said the Russians are interested in buying machinery and especially machine tools from the United States. The Soviets were one of America's biggest customers for such products in the 1930s, but the present U. S. ban on selling strategic goods to Communist countries has greatly changed the previous trade pattern.

18 Persons Perish In Egypt Quake

Ten of the dead were schoolgirls, trampled to death in a panic at their school in Cairo when the quake struck. Five persons were killed in Behera Province north of Cairo, two in Tanta, a town between Cairo and Alexandria, and a baby died at Kafr el Zayat, in the same area.

The 12-year-old was treated at Peninsula General Hospital for an ear wound caused by a fragment of the .22 bullet. Police said he had wedged the bullet in a tree.

30-Hour Week Is Seen Within Next Five Years

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12 (AP)—A 30-hour work week within the next five or ten years—with no reduction in pay or standard of living—was predicted today by an instrument manufacturer.

This will come to the average worker from "the intelligent development of automation in industry," said Dr. Arnold O. Beckman, president of Beckman Instruments, Inc., Los Angeles, and former California Institute of Technology professor.

He is chairman of the host committee of the Instrument Society of America, which today opened its 10th annual instrument-automation conference and exhibit.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 12 (AP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias today established a fund for cancer detection among the needy and said she hopes to resume tournament golf play in January.

The champion woman golfer is to leave Wednesday for her Tampa, Fla., home after a 3½ month hospital stay during her second battle with cancer.

"I think I'll be able to start practicing around Jan. 1 and hope to defend my title in the $5,000 Tampa Women's Open the latter part of January."

Babe said she will compete only in major tournaments next year. "I'm eyeing the National Women's Open. I didn't get a chance to defend my title this year," she added.

A bit weak from her long stay, Babe had a big smile as she entered a hospital sun porch for an announcement of establishment of the fund.

World Bankers See Progress, Incomes Rise

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 12 (AP)—Eugene R. Black, president of the World Bank, told the free world's financial leaders today that production and income in some countries are at record levels and "There are reasons to believe this progress can continue."

In an address at the 10th annual meeting of the boards of governors of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, Black also warned less developed countries against overexpansion that might cost economic stability.

He urged governments to allow private companies to undertake development projects wherever possible.

Black spoke before 300 delegates to a meeting of the 58-nation bank and fund in Istanbul University.

Earlier U. S. Treasury Secretary George Humphrey told the delegates prosperity runs high outside the Iron Curtain and that U. S. policy is aimed at keeping it that way.

Jet Scientist Is Deported To Red China

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12 (AP)—A jet propulsion scientist, Dr. Hsueh-shen Tsien, 46, will leave the United States for Red China Friday under a deportation order, the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service said today.

Robert Robinson, acting officer in charge of the immigration service office here, said the deportation warrant stated the Chinese-born Dr. Tsien was a member of the Communist party before entering the United States.

The Mirror-News reported Dr. Tsien was "swapped" as part of a deal for the recent release of 11 United States airmen. Robinson said he knew of no such deal.

Dr. Tsien has denied charges of Communist party membership, first made in 1950. He originally came to California Institute of Technology at near Pasadena in 1936 and headed the nonmilitary Guggenheim jet propulsion center there.

Robinson said Dr. Tsien is voluntarily deporting himself under the order. The United States had banned his leaving the country until last Aug. 4 when an order preventing departure was withdrawn. Robinson said that action was taken in Washington. Dr. Tsien resigned from Caltech shortly thereafter.

In 1950, Dr. Tsien sought to return to China. He said he wished to visit his aging parents. Federal agents seized eight packing cases which Dr. Tsien was shipping to himself in Shanghai. The government later said there was no secret material in the boxes.

Dr. Tsien was a wartime member of the Scientific Advisory Board for Lt. Gen. H. H. Arnold's air corps.

Negotiators Seek To End Westinghouse Corp. Strike

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12 (AP)—Top negotiators met tonight in an effort to end a strike of 43,000 members of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers against Westinghouse Electric Corp. But there was no report of progress.

The talks between James B. Carey, president of the union, and Vice President Robert D. Blasler of Westinghouse, resumed at 2 p.m. after a 12-hour recess. They continued again after a dinner recess.

Peaceful picketing was reported at 27 affected Westinghouse plants in nine states.

The company said its plants remained open "to employees who wish to work."

About 70,000 Westinghouse employees who work in some 30 plants where the CIO-lue does not have bargaining rights are not affected by the strike.

The strike was called in support of 2,200 members of the union who struck the East Pittsburgh plant Aug. 8, protesting company plans to make a time study of their jobs in an efficiency move. Another 6,000 were furloughed and 1,000 more failed to report today.

Pickets were posted at the East Pittsburgh plant today for the first time.

Orderly picketing was reported at all other struck plants. In most cases office personnel and non-union members were permitted to cross picket lines.

Some of the union locals taking part refused earlier to ratify the strike resolution passed by the conference board. But they walked off the job nevertheless.

The company said the Indianapolis local did not vote at all on the strike resolution.

For a time yesterday it appeared the sympathy strike would be averted and the East Pittsburgh dispute settled when James B. Carey, international union president, and Westinghouse Vice President Robert D. Blasler signed an agreement.

But the East Pittsburgh local's executive committee refused to ratify the agreement and the conference board ordered the strike.

Neither the company nor the union would say what clauses in the agreement were unacceptable to the East Pittsburgh local.

Blasler said: "We cannot understand Mr. Carey's questioning of an agreement which he himself signed. It is simply not believable that there was any misunderstanding by Mr. Carey on exactly what the terms of agreement meant."

Mother Unable To Be Tried In Heiress' Death

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12 (AP)—Three psychiatrists, including two appointed by the Commonwealth, agreed today that Mrs. Gertrude Silver was in no condition to face charges of conspiracy and of being an accessory to the abortion death of her daughter. They recommended she receive immediate psychiatric aid.

The testimony of the three physicians wound up a brief hearing before Magistrate Elias Myers with Mrs. Silver released in $1,500 bail for further hearing. No date was set, but the magistrate said that Mrs. Silver should remain in a institution until she is able to comprehend the charges lodged against her.

The daughter, Mrs. Doris Jean Silver Ostreicher, 22, died last Aug. 24 in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz. A subsequent inquest resulted in a ruling by the city medical examiner that she died of a criminal abortion.

Late last week, Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Silver charging her with being an accessory before the abortion and with conspiracy. Mrs. Silver was with her daughter in the Schwartz apartment the night she died.

Mrs. Ostreicher had eloped with a Miami Beach, Fla., motorcycle policeman—Earl Ostreicher—last June without the consent of her parents. She came home last month to straighten things out with her parents.

The doctors, Vincent Lathbury and George Wilson, both of the Philadelphia General Hospital's psychiatric staff, agreed with Mrs. Silver's personal physician, Dr. Abraham Ornstein that the woman was unable to comprehend what was going on. Dr. Ornstein, head of the Philadelphia General's neurological department and a professor of clinical psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania, had said earlier his patient was not fit to appear in court.

Dr. Ornstein said Mrs. Silver didn't even admit her daughter was dead and would appear in court unaware of the charges she faced. He told Magistrate Myers he would try to have her placed in an institution within a week.

Finn, American Begin Atlantic Trip In Yacht

CORK, Ireland, Sept. 12 (AP)—An American and a Finn kissed the blarney stone for good luck and sailed today for New York in a 26-foot yacht, confident they could cross the Atlantic against strong prevailing winds.

The American was Richard Buran, 28, of Huntington, N.Y., and the Finn was Sven Joffs, 34, of Helsinki. Their vessel was the Bermuda-registered yacht Atea.

Last year Joffs crossed the Atlantic from New York to Ireland single handed in 44 days, but the westbound voyage against the usual strong Atlantic winds, is regarded by local seamen as a much tougher task. The two sailors carried provisions and water for three months.

Gunman Robs Finance Co.

GLEN BURNIE, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—A bespectacled young gunman robbed the Glen Finance Co. of $300 here today after binding up a woman clerk with a sashcord.

Anne Arundel County police said the robbery, fourth in the county in three days, occurred shortly after noon.

Miss Beatrice Ozman, 24, of (816 Park Ave.) Baltimore, told police all other employees had gone to lunch when the young gunman came to her counter and inquired about a loan.

She said he started to leave when she told him the loan would have to be endorsed by someone else, but then returned to the counter and produced a nickel-plated revolver. He ordered her to lie on the floor, bound her hands and legs and emptied the cash drawer at her counter, Miss Ozman said.

She described the gunman as white, about 21, with black, neatly combed hair. She said he was wearing a fatigue cap, a white T-shirt and khaki trousers.

Police said there apparently was no connection between the loan company holdup and three other robberies over the weekend. William John McKenny, 29, of Pasadena was arrested this morning as a suspect in two Saturday stickups, and two soldiers were charged with robbing a grocery store at Severn on Saturday night.

Negotiators Hope To Quickly End Bendix Strike

BALTIMORE, Sept. 12 (AP)—Federal mediators will meet with representatives of the Bendix Radio Division and the AFL Machinists Union here tomorrow in an effort to hasten a settlement in a 12-day old strike.

Some 3,300 workers at six Bendix radio plants in the Baltimore area have been striking since Sept. 1. The union has asked a 21-cent hourly package wage increase, including a jobless pay plan won by the UAW-CIO at eight plants of the Bendix Aviation Corp.

The company has offered an eight-cent package. The company said the workers' average hourly pay under the old contract was $1.80.

A union statement said today that a conference of the AFL-CIO Bendix Bargaining Council, organized earlier this year among all unions having contracts with the 21 Bendix divisions, would be held Wednesday in Baltimore.

The purpose, it said, would be to review the strike situation here and to analyze fully the recent settlement at the eight aviation division plants.

"The union strongly insists," the announcement said, "that the corporation's local plants can readily grant the same terms here and that the local management is treating the 3,300 employees now on strike as 'second class' Bendix workers."

Integration Protests Ebb As School Classes Resume

HEREFORD, Sept. 12 (AP)—Protests against integration of Negro students into white schools here and in neighboring Carroll County appeared to have died down as classes resumed today without incident and with nearly normal attendance.

Meanwhile, in Montgomery County, some 53,000 students, including about 500 Negro transferees, returned to county schools without incident.

Absenteeism from integration holdouts dwindled to about six or seven pupils here at Hereford High School, scene of protest demonstrations last week.

Harvey W. Kreuzburg, principal of the school, said there were 34 absentees today, about a normal percentage for a school of 950 students. From contacts with parents, Kreuzburg estimated that six or seven students were being kept home in protest against integration.

The group of protesting parents and other persons who had gathered in front of the school every day since it opened last Wednesday made no appearance this morning. Although a half-dozen women were reported at the school entrance later, there were no incidents.

What are dividends... who gets 'em?

1. Dividends are the return you get from a company when you own its stock. You can't be sure of getting them, and, of course, they may vary from year to year. However, 298 common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange have paid dividends in every year for 25 years or more.

2. Who decides if they'll be paid? That's the job of the company's board of directors. As a share owner, you have the right to vote and help elect these directors.

3. Dividends come from profits. A company, like a family, earns a certain amount and spends most of it, meeting expenses. What's left over is the profit which may be used for the payment of dividends to share owners. Of course, some years a company may not earn any profits at all or may even operate at a loss. Some years, most or all of the profits may go into expansion.

4. How much do stocks pay? The past is no guarantee of the future, but here's how the 1,079 common stocks now listed on the Exchange have been paying recently. These figures are based on August 1, 1955, closing prices and total cash dividends (including extra dividends) paid for the year ending June 30, 1955:

141 paid 6% or more; 201 paid 5% to 6%; 288 paid 4% to 5%; 190 paid 3% to 4%; 95 paid 2% to 3%; 49 paid under 2%; 115 paid no dividends at all.

Before you invest, get the facts. Investing is a serious business. Stocks can go down as well as up. So before you invest, be sure you have adequate savings to cushion you and your family against emergencies. And be certain, too, to get the help of a partner or a registered representative of a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. He can supply you with information about the 1,522 common and preferred stocks and the 739 corporate bonds listed on the Exchange. He'll be glad to help you plan a balanced investment program—including both stocks and bonds if you desire. His information and advice won't cost you a penny.

Keegan Blasts Malicious Playground Destruction

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan yesterday scored malicious destruction of property by children on the city's playgrounds.
Keegan, speaking at the meeting of the Mayor and Council, displayed pictures taken by the Police Department, and issued an appeal to children to treat playgrounds the same as they would when under supervision. To the parents, he said, falls the duty of seeing that destruction ceases and the playthings used for play as intended.
Keegan said, in obvious reference to the various playground "associations," that "these people work, and work hard" to provide adequate facilities and they don't want their efforts destroyed.
The commissioner added that police are looking into the matter and where restitution is possible they will see it is done.

Contract Bridge by Josephine Culbertson

CALAMITIES USUALLY PARTNERSHIP AFFAIRS

IT IS ONE of bridge's oldest axioms that a large penalty is the result of bad bidding by both partners—that only in the rarest instances is it a one-man affair. (Naturally, this applies only to games of reasonably high caliber; it does not apply if there is a "wild man" at the table.)

Consider the following case. It is true that West bid badly from beginning to end, but the point is that his partner was not blameless either.

South dealer. Both sides vulnerable.

Car Crashes On New Road Driver Hurt

KEYSER — A 25-year-old Swanton man is a patient in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, with injuries suffered when he drove his automobile onto fresh concrete Saturday evening, causing his vehicle to crash into an embankment on the Keyser-Piedmont road.

Attaches identified the man as Neal Sweitzer and said he is being treated for rib and lung injuries. West Virginia State Trooper Charles Oliver, who is investigating, said Sweitzer was driving towards Piedmont on State Route 46-W along a section where workmen had poured concrete Saturday. The section was posted for one-way traffic, Trooper Oliver explained, adding that Sweitzer's vehicle swerved after traversing a short piece of the new concrete and crashed into an embankment. Damage to the car was estimated at $400.

Trooper Oliver said two passengers were thrown from the vehicle after it collided with the embankment, Allan Parrish, 20, also of Swanton, suffering brush burns, and Charles Fickes, escaping injury.

MIDLAND—Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson announce the birth of a daughter Friday in Miners Hospital, Frostburg.

Is a first glance at you intriguing? It can be.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

The first glimpse of you perhaps counts far more than it should. You look interesting, like someone who would be nice to know, or you're overlooked. Have you false notions of what makes this difference?

Some very nice girls take the wrong steps to attract attention. Exaggerated makeup, spectacular clothes, odd behavior — all these do just the opposite of what is expected of them. They catch the spotlight, yes, but to no good purpose. The flamboyant turns away potential admirers after the initial curiosity.

If you make sure that your looks are always a glowing reflection of your inner self, you can attract interest and hold it. This means the perfect grooming that makes you a joy to see and is an outward expression of high standards, well-chosen costumes that show your good taste, a pleasant expression that promises good nature, and a sparkle in your eye that indicates

Council Appoints Wegman Assistant Fire Chief

Several appointments received approval of the Mayor and Council at its regular meeting yesterday morning.

Vincent H. Wegman was appointed assistant fire chief effective today.

Charles William Welsh, who has been serving in the capacity, received appointment as humane officer effective September 1 at a salary of $197 a month. The salary is retroactive to July 1.

Council confirmed Charles A. Nave as a regular member of the Fire Department.

Guy F. Long, who has been serving temporarily as weighmaster, was appointed watchman at the scalehouse to perform duties as weighmaster under the job classification program set up by the Civil Service Commission.

Salary $229 A Month

Long will receive a salary of $229 a month. The appointment is effective as of September 1 and the salary retroactive to July 1. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz questioned how Long could be both watchman and weighmaster, and was told by Mayor Roy W. Eves and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson that was how the job classification program worked in this case.

Eves said the order yesterday makes Long's appointment permanent and that the Civil Service Commission used its legal right to reclassify the position.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan, explained the City Code provides for a scales inspector (for concerns which weigh merchandise, such as grocery stores, etc.); and a weighmaster. These are not revenue but protective measures, he added.

Finan said the city does not have a scales inspector but the state does and he felt the two would overlap in their duties if the city had one. The provision remains in the charter, however.

Finan said he did feel that until such time as there is a report, the city is obliged to keep the scales job going. He added it might be possible for truckers to meet with council on the subject and added the scales setup is a costly thing and not paying for itself.

If it is not making money, Finan continued, perhaps the whole setup should be revamped.

Reports On Exams

Council also received from the Civil Service Commission the results of four examinations for city positions.

Those placed on the eligible lists are as follows:

Assistant fire chief—Vincent H. Wegman, Francis J. Wallace, Thomas W. Lindner, Virgil V. McClure.

Police sergeant—Wilbur E. Shank, Walter P. Dennison, Charles

E. Snider, John S. Chaney, E. Gordon Hite, Carl E. Williams, George E. Pfeiffer, Ralph M. Buser, Presley C. Jenkins, Harry L. Iser and Donald H. Smith.

What About Russians If Travel Broadens?

The next few months may generate a steady flow of visitors between Soviet Russia and the United States. That is the prediction of a high Russian Intourist official who says satisfactory financial arrangements are all that stand in the way of present plans for "tens of thousands" of Soviet citizens to visit the U. S. Is this a hint that Washington should finance their trips?

There are growing indications that in addition to tourists special groups, similar to the Soviet farm delegation which recently toured this country, may soon arrive to have a look at various other American fields of endeavor. Already a private invitation, which has the approval of the government at Washington, has been issued for Soviet housing experts to come to the U. S. as guests of the National Association of Home Builders. And it is indicated the Russians will accept.

According to the Russian tourist official, any large scale exchange of visitors with the United States would have to be worked out on a basis of an equality of expenses between Russian and U. S. groups. Russian plans for Americans visiting there call for an expenditure of $10 to $30 a day per person. The chief problem there, in accommodating American tourists, would be hotel space. That country has little available for the casual traveler.

Russians coming in "tens of thousands" to the United States would hardly be casual tourists. Casual travel has not been part of the Russian scheme of things as it has been known in the past. Certainly few Russians, except high government officials, can afford to spend $10 to $30 a day on travel. These tourists will come not only by government permission but with government encouragement and perhaps financial help.

The apparent willingness of Moscow to make it possible for large numbers of Russians to come to America and observe the American way of life clashes sharply with the Soviet's former attitude. In the past the Russian people have been fed a steady diet of propaganda about the "plight" of American workers.

Does Russia expect tens of thousands of its citizens, if they are permitted to come to the U. S., to keep from making comparisons? And can Russia stand comparison of this sort?

Revision Of The Charter

The Tenth General Assembly of the United Nations will be faced with a decision as to whether a conference is to be called to review the Charter and, if necessary, to amend or revise it. The provision to do that in the Charter itself is a very wise one. After 10 years of experience with the Charter, its members ought to know whether they have a workable document and want to keep it as is.

For one thing, if the United Nations is to be a parliament of man, all nations should belong to it. As it stands, Soviet Russia has three votes in the General Assembly while every other member state, including the United States, has one vote each. This is one of the absurdities discussed at Yalta and settled at San Francisco. The Ukraine and Byelorussia are not independent states.

On the other hand, Ireland, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Albania, Finland, Austria, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria, Jordan, Nepal, Libya, Ceylon, West Germany, and Japan are not members. East Germany, the Mongolian People's Republic, Red China, North Korea, South Korea, North Viet-Nam, South Viet-Nam, Laos and Cambodia, raise issues which, for a time, justify delay and consideration.

The question of admission has much to do with the balance of power within the United Nations not only among the various countries but between the Security Council and the General Assembly. It was Stalin's concept of the United Nations that the great nations should manage the world. Are the great powers to be ruled by a majority vote?

Unfortunately the Security Council degenerated until of the five great powers, only three continue to be significant. China is represented by Formosa, whose position is contested by Red China, and France has lost stature. So, the Security Council has, for several years, been little more than a contesting ground between the United States and Soviet Russia, with Great Britain as a sort of middleman. Occasionally, one of the non-permanent members speaks up but the words are not important.

On the other hand, the General Assembly has become the really important body, particularly for the smaller nations which use this body as a sounding board. Whereas the Security Council is dominated by the veto, which makes it possible for any one of five nations to reject a proposal, the General Assembly is controlled by no such device.

Up to now, Stalinist Russia has been opposed to the revision of the Charter which it regards as an American device to get rid of the veto. What the "New Look" regime of Nikita Khrushchev will have to say about revision, we shall know before long. If he continues to pursue a Leninist Foreign Policy, Khrushchev might agree to a conference, for no other reason than that it gives him a further opportunity for an international meeting close to the summit.

From a practical standpoint, the United States has more to lose by the abolition of the veto than Soviet Russia. In the trend toward neutralism, a majority of small nations could combine against the United States in the General Assembly and vote in such a manner as to do this country damage or force us to withdraw from the United Nations altogether. It is in connection with this danger that some measure like the Bricker Amendment is essential and undoubtedly will be passed or the Charter will have to be tightened so as not, under any circumstances, to affect through its provisions the internal laws of any country.

The fear of a shift in the balance of power in the United Nations will probably prevent any drastic changes in the Charter. For instance, it has been suggested that voting be by population, which would give Red China four times the vote of the United States and India about 10 times the vote of Great Britain. This, of course, will not happen because the countries with huge masses of population do not possess the power to enforce their will either by political or military means.

Another question that could arise in a conference for revision is the Secretariat and staff of the United Nations and their relationship to member states. This is becoming an extremely vexed problem, particularly as some countries object to methods of employment. This, of course, applies particularly to Americans who work for the United Nations.

Looking For A Market Place

Ike's Common-Sense Speeches Help Popularity

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 — Small wonder that Dwight Eisenhower is the most popular President America has had in half a century — every time he makes an impromptu speech he says the common-sense things that Americans enjoy hearing again and again. He is today the living symbol of traditional Americanism—the kind that started with sturdy individualism at Plymouth Rock and has continued to this day as the backbone of the free-enterprise system.

The President in just a few sentences in his speech at Denver over the weekend reaffirmed the faith and the philosophy that have been primarily responsible for America's position today as the most powerful country industrially in the world.

Interpreting Lincoln's famous phrase about "government of the people, by the people, for the people," Mr. Eisenhower said:

"For the people: we have seen the phrase tortured by demagogic types to mean that an over-wise and over-busy government takes over all the functions of living. They say: 'Now go on boys, do just what you are told and we will take care of the 165 million people.' And they tortured the general welfare clause of the constitution."

"I don't believe that is what Lincoln meant at all. If we are for the people, which means for the individual as such, we go first to the Ten First Amendments of the Constitution—to the Bill of Rights. That was written for the people."

"That bill of Rights does not guarantee to each of us a profitable living. It guarantees to each of us an equal opportunity with all others to earn our living for ourselves and our families, and protect our future."

"We could discuss further what we mean by 'for the people.' But I refer to another quotation of Lincoln's which was generally to this effect: the function of government is to do for the people what the individual cannot do at all, or do so well for himself, and in all those things which the individual can do for himself, the government ought not to interfere."

"Now I think today that is as good a presentation of the Republican case as I know how to make."

The President was tactful and restrained. He might have referred to the way the New Deal and Fair Deal packed the Federal Judiciary including the Supreme Court of the United States to distort the Constitution and tear down decisions of more than 150 years standing.

Not only in proclaiming party doctrine, moreover, but in dealing with the delicate subject of the "indispensable man," did Mr. Eisenhower speak sensibly. He was modest in acknowledging the loyalty of the party to him but at the same time pointed out logically that a party must not allow the impression to be cultivated that it has only one good man who could serve in the Presidency. This is by far the wiser approach for the future even though in 1956 Dwight Eisenhower, barring any physical mishap, will be renominated.

What a refreshing contrast between the Eisenhower utterances and those of Adlai Stevenson on the same day. The 1952 candidate could only paraphrase Lincoln to say that today there is a "government of the rich, by the rich and for the rich."

Happily the rich today constitute almost the entire population. There are, for instance, according to the latest figures obtained from the Federal Reserve Board, about 18,300,000 families with an income of $5,000 a year or over out of a total number of 49,400,000 families in America. While the $5,000-a-year-and-over group is about 38 per cent of all the families, this same group now buys about three-fourths of all the new cars sold each year. There are indeed about 5,000,000 families that own two or more cars.

Where would the automobile industry and its hundreds of thousands of workers be if the individuals constituting this important market did not have the initiative and the opportunity to earn $5,000 a year which is certainly "rich" in terms of half a century ago? Incidentally there are in addition about 15,000,000 families with incomes between $3,000 and $5,000 a year which isn't exactly "poor" either.

Indications are that the next set of figures issued will show — according to the present rate of growth—that there are about 36,000,000 families earning $3,000 a year or more, which is about three-fourths of all the families in the country. There are a lot of votes in that mass of families and if the Democratic Party leaders intend to revive Huey Long's doctrines of redistributing wealth, they will find a lot of protests against tampering with incomes of those above the $3,000 mark.

Although the Republicans don't know it the 1956 campaign is prematurely hatched. The tiger marrow fat and Indian swamp water are mixed. The medicine show is on the road.

Harry will lose the teen-age vote when he accuses the administration of stealth and cunning. That's how Davy Crockett conquered the wild frontier.

Here's how Harry operates. No matter what he says he doesn't have to prove it.

Army Bungles Murder Probe, Lets Vicious Killer Go Free

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's note — While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation his column is being written by members of his staff.)

WASHINGTON — Inside story can now be told of how the army bungled a murder investigation and let a brutal killer go free.

The crime was committed nearly 10 years ago — at 3 a. m., Jan. 7, 1946. Three American officers were hacked to death with a meat ax while they lay sleeping in a peaceful villa overlooking the Danube at Passau, Germany. Their bodies were doused with gasoline and set afire to destroy the evidence.

Object of the assault was Maj. Everett Cofran, stern but fair military governor of Passau, disliked by his officers but loved by his enlisted men. The other two victims — Capt. Adrian Wessler and Lt. Stanley Rosewater — were innocent visitors who chose the wrong, tragic night to call on the major. They had intended to stop only a few minutes en route to Vienna. But Cofran persuaded them to spend night — in his downstairs bedrooms.

The killer apparently chopped up Wessler and Rosewater by mistake as he groped in the dark from bedroom to bedroom. He finally found Cofran asleep in the attic and murdered him last. The gasoline inferno, left behind by the murderer, badly burned the corpses and destroyed part of the villa. A neighbor also heard a splash in the Danube, and divers later fished a bloodstained meat ax out of the river.

"Tiger Man" Suspected

The ugly finger of suspicion pointed to a junior officer, a morose man who Army psychiatrists claimed had the latent killer instincts of a tiger. Overwhelming evidence was piled up against him. Then the Army mysteriously dropped the investigation and sent the suspect back to the States.

Nine years later, the Army dusted the cobwebs off the case and drew up a secret murder indictment against the officer. But by this time Exhibit No. 1, the murder ax, had mysteriously vanished. Then the Army ran into a legal block trying to extradite him back to Germany. The case is now so snarled in red tape it may never go to trial.

Meanwhile the murder suspect, the man with the tiger traits, is free in this country. Who knows whether some gloomy night he may strike again.

This column has painstakingly investigated the Passau triple murder. Here are the facts which the Army knew 10 years ago but did nothing about.

Major Cofran, who enlisted as a private in World War I at 15 and came up through the ranks, was generally unpopular with his officers. But one officer had the most cause to hate him. This officer had considered himself in line to be the next military governor, then Cofran not only recommended someone else but gave the officer a low efficiency rating. Cofran also threatened to investigate the officer's German girl friend on the suspicion her family was mixed up in a shady deal. Finally, two days before the murder, Cofran summarily fired the girl from her military government job.

Clues Pile Up

These grudges boiled up in the officer to the point that he admittedly quarreled with Cofran shortly before the triple killing. He went so far, in fact, as to ask another officer to pull strings at higher headquarters to get Cofran transferred. This attempt to remove the major failed.

But what about the ghastly crime itself? Investigators concluded it could have been committed only by an athletic person thoroughly familiar with the villa. The officer-suspect was a former gym instructor and combat veteran. Before the grim night, he made a careful inspection of the villa, including Cofran's quarters, on the excuse his girl friend was in charge of returning it.

Here are a host of other clues pointing to the same officer:

1. He spilled gasoline on his pants the eve of the killings. He claimed it happened while tinkering with his car.

2. He left fingerprints on five gasoline cans found in the charred villa. His explanation: he had discovered the cans during his inspection, hefted each one to determine how full it was, and tested the lids for tightness.

3. He made three visits to the villa on the murder night. He gave as his reason that he wanted to learn from Cofran the results of a meeting which, investigation revealed, had already been discussed with the suspect earlier the same day.

4. He was seen before the murder in the cellar of a near-by villa where the murder ax had been located.

Witness Hears Steps

5. A witness beneath the suspect's apartment reported hearing him shortly before the fire was discovered. At first, he claimed to have slept uninterrupted until the fire alarm. Then he changed his statement, saying he had visited the bathroom once. Tests proved that a flushing toilet was more audible than footsteps. Yet the downstairs witness heard no flushing.

6. The Fraulien who knocked on his door to report the fire swore he appeared to be wide awake.

7. He ran around aimlessly during the fire instead of taking concrete action to rescue Cofran, then believed trapped in his quarters. The suspect also ran off to summon the fire department, though he could have used two available phones and though he later admitted not knowing where the fire department was located.

8. He was discovered soap-sudsing his soiled uniform after the crime, though his washing had always been done previously by a maid.

9. He kept changing details of his story to dovetail with the testimony of witnesses. Other inconsistencies also appeared in his statement.

10. He refused to look at the bodies or attempt to identify them. Vomit was also discovered outside his window after the killings.

Is Socialism Needed?

By Stewart Alsop

LONDON.

Easily the most interesting political phenomenon in Britain today is the soul-searching which is going on from the top to the bottom of the British Socialist party. The soul-searching centers around two questions. Although no British Socialist would put them quite that way, the questions may be phrased about as follows:

Is socialism necessary?

And if socialism is necessary, what is it?

In a recent brilliant but little noted analysis of the Socialist party's defeat in the spring elections, Hugh Gaitskill, heir apparent to the Labor party leadership, wrote as follows:

"There are signs of something, of which we should do well to take note. I fancy that in the last year or two more and more people are beginning to turn to their own personal affairs and to concentrate on their own personal advancement. No doubt it has been stimulated by . . . TV, new gadgets like refrigerators and washing machines . . . even the flood of new cars on the home markets. Call it if you like the growing Americanization of outlook. I believe it's there and it's no good moaning about it—apart from the fact that the moaning, when it comes from better off people . . . seems to me rather odiously hypocritical."

Gaitskill went on to suggest to his fellow Socialists that it would be wise to plan for the next election on the assumption that it might well take place at a time of "higher living standards and reasonable stability." This is a wise, if optimistic, suggestion. Yet it precisely defines the Socialist dilemma. For if you already have "higher living standards and reasonable stability," is socialism really necessary?

British socialism was born, after all, at a time when a terribly low standard of living and recurrent periods of mass unemployment were the lot of the British worker. These conditions created British socialism and shaped Socialist doctrine.

Consider the plight of British Socialists today. Two generations of British workers have been taught that Conservative rule spells unbridled capitalism, which in turn spells mass unemployment and mass misery. After more than three years of Conservative rule, the British standard of living has never been higher (which is a main reason for the current hardly felt but potentially serious monetary crisis in Britain). And, privately, the Socialist leaders rather feebly protest not that

Conservatives have permitted unemployment but that they have "let unemployment reach unrealistic levels."

But what is more serious for the Socialists—at least for the intellectuals who are the idea men of the Party—is that they have lost their faith in Socialist doctrine. The heart and soul of Socialist doctrine, after all, has been nationalization of industry. Take industry out of the hands of greedy monopolists, so the doctrine ran, turn it over to the state to run for the benefit of all, and a new heaven and a new earth are automatically ushered in.

Now Socialists—and many Tories too, for that matter—privately agree that nationalization clearly hasn't made much difference one way or the other. To be sure, the Conservatives were as wrong as the Socialists. Nationalization has not brought the economy crashing down in ruins. During the last election hardly a voice was raised in favor of denationalizing the coal or electric industries. But nationalization, which was supposed to be the panacea for everything, has quite obviously solved no basic problems, for workers in the nationalized industries or for anyone else.

Left-wing Socialists, led by Aneurin Bevan, tried to put over an answer which might be defined as "peace and expropriation." But, thanks in part to President Eisenhower, the "peace issue" is also just about as dead as mutton, and any serious proposal for the outright expropriation of private property would be sure to alienate huge chunks of the middle class and even the labor class vote. As a result, Bevan, if he is not yet as dead as mutton, is certainly politically moribund.

That leaves the supremely able Gaitskill as an odds on bet to succeed Clement Attlee as party leader. Neither Gaitskill nor any of his followers has succeeded in defining just what socialism really is, at a time when nationalization of industry is no longer a live issue, and when the country is prosperous and fully employed. But at least, in the process of soul-searching which is now going on, certain realities are being faced, and above all, the tired shreds of Marxism which still cling to British Socialist doctrine are being washed away. All in all, the soul-searching is a healthy process, which American liberals, who also inherited doctrines which have little relationship to current reality, might well emulate.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Word from London is that Mayfair's fall styles will feature the "tube look." As a test, anyway.

London designers will make the waist look natural. That'll make it a one-season style or less.

Most people don't even have a waist. Just a middle.

It's an easy style, tying up the natural waist and the "tube look." A lot of us can achieve the natural waist by dropping the "e."

In eating, most of us have had the experience of a piece of food going down "the wrong way."

These particles usually are coughed up but occasionally the accident is more serious and now and then results in sudden death through asphyxiation.

Such mishaps occur in various ways. The adult who eats too fast and bolts his food is more likely to get into trouble than one who takes his time and chews each morsel well. As a rule, the individual with a mouthful of food is distracted and oops, it goes down the Sunday throat.

Persons with dentures often are troubled along this line as the store teeth have no feelings and cannot warn the wearer that food is not masticated adequately. But children

Steve Owen, famous football star and coach, spent his youth as a cowboy on the Oklahoma plains, and didn't devote much time to football until an alert coach, noting his size, called out, "Hey, boy, how about taking a whack at running the ball?"

Steven got off his horse, picked up the pigskin, and ran through would-be tacklers like greased lightning.

"Fine! fine!" enticed the coach. "Try that once more, but this time take off your spurs."

The salesman for the 44 volume encyclopedia climaxed his pitch with a hearty, "Yes, ma'am! You simply put a tiny deposit down, and don't pay another penny for six months!" The prospect looked surprised, and demanded, "Who told you about us?"

dren constitute the greatest number of victims of choking accidents. They rarely concentrate on the business of eating and are distracted easily by trivial events.

Many tots pack as much food into the mouth as it will hold before chewing and swallowing. It is at this time that a piece of potato, bread, or meat goes into the windpipe and there is much coughing and patting of the back to dislodge it.

Small children have no molars and are unable to grind up a peanut or piece of hard candy. This cause ranks with improper chewing by adults and explains why it is unwise to feed popcorn or cookies containing nuts or raisins to a young child. The same applies to the seeds in fruits or juices.

The hazard is even greater during the first year of life when the youngster instinctively puts anything and everything into the mouth, including nuts, pins, beads, beans, buttons, and small toys. If such objects reach the lungs, the child is usually whisked away to a large medical center where facilities for removal are available.

After a tyke inhales a solid object, the mother usually turns him upside down and slaps his back hoping that the force of gravity and the blows will stimulate the cough reflex or dislodge the object. Gaggling is incited by sticking a finger down the throat to induce vomiting and coughing. This maneuver usually is effective when a peanut or piece of meat is stuck in the back of the throat.

The efficacy of these emergency measures depends upon where the object has lodged. If a small particle goes into the lung, it will be uncomfortable but will not shut off the breath entirely. The substances must be removed, however, to avoid pneumonia or a lung abscess.

When the object is large enough to obstruct the windpipe there is danger of asphyxiation and heroic emergency measures are required. Unless the physician arrives promptly, little can be done.

On his arrival, the child is blue and usually unconscious and the only thing to do is to make an opening through the neck and into the windpipe (tracheotomy). This procedure is lifesaving as it allows air to enter the lungs as well as time to

F. O. Eagles And McCoole Vets Score In Softball Tourney

Allen Sheetz Posts 4-0 Win Over Johnson

Clevenger Masters Lathrum's, 10 to 7; Semi-Finals Today

Allen Sheetz faced only 26 batsmen and yielded only one hit in pitching the Fraternal Order of Eagles to a 4-0 victory over Johnson's Grocery, champions of the City League, last evening in the Western Maryland Softball Tournament at Penn Avenue Field.

The victory was the second in the tourney for the Eagles and advanced them to tonight's semi-final round.

MJ Dean's single in the third inning was the Grocers' lone bingle. Four other Johnson players reached first base and only one advanced as far as third. Three were hit by pitched balls and one was safe on an error. In posting his 18th win of the year against seven losses, Sheetz failed to issue a base on balls and struck out four. It was his fifth shutout triumph of the year.

Ingram Clouts Homer
Clay Ingram belted a 5th inning homer and single and Bob Pence had a pair of one-base knocks for the Eagles who solved the offerings of Glenn Kauffman, Johnson's 21-game winner, for eight safeties. The Grocers' ace struck out four and issued two passes.

The Deans—MIL of Johnson's and Bill of the Eagles—featured with several nice catches in center field.

McCoole Vets Win
Jimmy Clevenger, better known here as a basketball star with Cumberland pro teams of recent years, twirled McCoole's Veterans of Foreign Wars into the semi-finals of the tourney by turning back Lathrum's Grocery in the final game on last night's program. The score was 10-7.

Clevenger hurled a four-hitter, fanned nine and sparked the attack of the Mineral County League pennant winners by blasting a two-run homer and a single. "Tucker" Cain helped himself to a double and two singles and scored two runs.

Stickley obtained two of the four hits given up by Clevenger and Donnie Irons had a single, two walks and scored three runs.

Two Games Tonight
In tonight's semi-finals, Nave's Market, Men's Rec League champions, will face the powerful Pottomac Valley Old Germans, champions of the County League and winners of 26 consecutive games, at 6 p.m., while at 7:30 the McCoole Vets will collide with the Fraternal Order of Eagles. The winners will meet in the final game on Wednesday night. Yesterday's scores:

NEW CHAMP IS CROWNED—Mrs. Elizabeth L. "Betty" Hodges, left, returned to the championship picture at the Cumberland Country Club by defeating Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie, right, 1954 winner, in the finals of the Women's Golf Association fall tournament yesterday, 1 up on the 18th. The sterling silver platter shown in the above picture, won by Mrs. Hodges, is donated by the Queen City Brewing Company. Mrs. Bowie gained the first leg on the trophy last year. Mrs. Hodges, wife of Dr. W. Royce Hodges, last won the club championship in 1946.

Mrs. Betty Hodges Wins Country Club Golf Title

Defeats Mrs. Bowie, 1 Up On 18th, Cops Old German Trophy

Mrs. Elizabeth L. "Betty" Hodges, wife of Dr. W. Royce Hodges, dethroned Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie as fall golf champion of the Cumberland Country Club by defeating the latter in the finals of the annual tournament yesterday, 1 up on the 18th hole.

The victory, third for Mrs. Hodges in the title fight, entitles her to a leg on the Old German trophy, a sterling silver platter offered by the Queen City Brewing Company and won for the first time last year by Mrs. Bowie. The trophy must be won three times by the same player for permanent possession.

Mrs. Hodges advanced to the finals by winning over Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth by default and defeating Mrs. Helen Wise, 3 and 2.

The finalists were all-even for the first nine holes. They halved the tenth, eleventh and twelfth. Mrs. Hodges won the 13th to go one up only to have her opponent take the 14th and 15th and grab the lead. Mrs. Hodges took the 16th, tied the 17th, and won the 18th and the match.

Mrs. Hodges returned to the club championship picture after an absence of nine years. She retired the Carroll Boggs Trophy in 1946 after having won legs on it last year and in 1942 and 1941.

Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth won the consolation round of this year's tourney, defeating Mrs. Lynn Lashley in the finals, 2 and 1.

Cox, a native of Montebello, Cal., is scheduled to report to the A's this season if Montreal does not get into the little world series.

Injuries Plague Navy Grid Team

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—Four Navy players nursed bruises and sprains today as a result of Saturday's workout against Boston U. while the rest of the Middies continued practice for their Sept. 24 football opener against William and Mary.

Temporarily out of action were fullback Dick Guest and left halfback Ned Oldham, both first stringers, reserve halfback Ed Malynn and fourth team center John Witzmann.

Oldham, the only sophomore to crack Navy's starting lineup, pulled a stomach muscle in the Boston scrimmage and will avoid contact work for the rest of the week. Guest sustained a hip bruise and Malynn sprained an ankle. Witzmann was out with a leg injury.

Meanwhile, all-America end Ron Beagle returned to light drills still bothered by a wrist injury. He is not expected to be ready for the William and Mary game, but coaches hope to have him for South Carolina the following week.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 12 (INS)—A couple of ex-champions and some bright young stars were eliminated today in the opening round of the 35th national amateur golf tournament at Richmond.

Arthur Hoff of Lagrange, Ill., ousted the 1940 titlist, Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., one-up on the 20th.

Alderton May Start Opener For Maryland

Cumberlander May Replace Pellegrini

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 12 (AP)—Bob Pellegrini, rugged Maryland center being touted for All-America football honors this season, may miss next Saturday's opener with Missouri because of a knee injury.

Pellegrini hurt his left knee in the final practice scrimmage last Saturday and X-rays today showed he strained the internal lateral ligament.

Dr. Thurston Adams who examined the knee, said it is unlikely that Pellegrini will be able to play Saturday.

Trainer Duke Wyre planned to give the big center constant treatment this week and it depends on how fast the knee responds whether Pellegrini will make the trip to Columbia, Mo.

Bucs Take Final From Cards, 9-3

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12 (AP)—The last-place Pittsburgh Pirates took a consolation prize tonight, a 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the final game of the season between the National League's tag-end clubs.

Lino Donoso held the Cards to six hits, taking his fourth victory of the season, three over the Redbirds. The Cardinals took the season's play, however, 12 games to 10.

Pittsburgh's Dale Long broke up a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning when he homered against losing pitcher Harvey Haddix with two mates on bases with walks. Long led the Pirate attack with four runs batted in, and two runs scored, on a 3-for-3 night at bat.

Cardinal moments against left-hander Donoso were confined almost entirely to Stan Musial's efforts. Musial hit bases-empty home runs in the sixth and eighth innings, bringing his total for the year to 30.

Musial's first home run also was his 100th run batted in for the season. It is the eighth year Musial has batted in 100 or more runs during his honor-laden career. The National League record in this department is nine seasons of 100 or more RBIs, and it is held by Mel Ott.

Marciano To Break Camp Next Monday

GROSSINGER, N. Y., Sept. 12 (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano, already in peak condition for his Sept. 20 defense against Archie Moore, took things easy today at his training camp.

The undefeated Brockton blaster hit the road in the morning and then had a hair cut.

"I hope the hair cutting doesn't weaken him like it did Samson," quipped trainer Charley Goldman.

The little conditioner had reason to be jolly. Rocky is in fine shape. Marciano will box only four more times before the fight. He will spar Wednesday and Thursday, rest Friday, and finish sparring on Saturday and Sunday. He will go to New York Monday.

MAY START—Gene Alderton, above, former Fort Hill High School player, may start at center for Maryland in the Terps' opening game Saturday with Missouri if co-captain Bob Pellegrini is unable to play. Pellegrini suffered a knee injury in practice Saturday. Gene is 20 years old, tips the beam at 190 and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Howard Alderton, 521 Woodside Avenue.

Logart Gets Nod In St. Nick Bout

Cuban Welterweight Defeats Al Wilson

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Isaac Logart, a fine, 22-year-old welterweight prospect from Cuba, outsped and outpunched Al (Sugar) Wilson of Englewood, N. J., tonight to win a unanimous 10-round decision at St. Nicholas Arena.

Logart weighed 145½, Wilson 147. The youngster from Kid Gavilan's home town of Camaguey, looked a lot like The Kid in his younger days, as he came on strong in the second half of the telecast scrap.

The officials had Logart ahead by the following round scores: referee Pete Della 6-3-1, judge Harold Barnes 9-1 and judge Al Singer, the former lightweight champion 8-2. The AP card had Logart in front 7-3.

Logart, a 9-5 favorite, just threw too much leather at his tall, skinny opponent. Wilson's best round was the second when he scored with solid body punches.

Logart recorded his 38th victory. He has lost five. Wilson lost his 15th against 25 wins. A crowd of 1,700 paid $2,300.

Senators Test Cleveland, Detroit Faces Yankees Today

Tribe Engages Washington In Doubleheader

Lemon, Garcia Slated To Hurl; White Sox Invade Baltimore

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—The tumultuous American League pennant race appears to have trimmed down to a struggle between Cleveland and New York despite the insistence of the Chicago and Boston managers that their teams are still in position to take it all.

"We're still in it," warned Marty Marion, White Sox skipper. "Don't count us out. Of our 11 remaining games, nine are against Baltimore and Kansas City. Cleveland plays us two in our park. If we can win those, we'll be in good shape."

"It's pretty tough now," admitted Mike Higgins, Red Sox pilot. "But we're not giving up. Those seven games with the Yankees will tell the story."

A thumbnail description of the race boils down to something like this:

Best position—Cleveland.
Worst position—Boston.
Softest schedule—Chicago.
Hardest schedule—New York.

Resume Struggle Today

All four contenders get a well-deserved respite today but the struggle will resume tomorrow with Cleveland engaging the Senators in a twilight-night doubleheader in Washington, Chicago clashing with the Orioles in another twilight twin bill in Baltimore, the Red Sox meeting Kansas City in a pair of afternoon games in Boston and the Yankees taking on Detroit in a single sunlight affair in New York.

Despite his game and a half advantage over runner-up New York, manager Al Lopez refused to be trapped into predicting a flag for his Indians.

"See me after Tuesday's doubleheader in Washington," he replied. "It isn't difficult to understand Lopez' concern regarding the seventh place Senators. A soft touch for practically everybody else in the league, the Nats have simply murdered the Indians all year."

Play Worst Against Nats

"We seem to play our worst against Washington and our best against New York," Lopez said. "The records bear him out. In 22 meetings with the Yankees, Cleveland committed only six errors in winning 13 games. On the other hand, the Indians have been guilty of 26 miscues in 19 games against Washington, winning only seven against 12 losses."

"We've been using second line pitching against Washington while saving our aces for the Yankees," Lopez pointed out. "Tomorrow I'm going with my best against the Senators—Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia."

Cleveland has 11 games left but six are against the tough Tigers and two against the White Sox.

Boston has 13 left, 10 at home. The three on the road are against the Yankees, whom they meet seven more times, four in Fenway Park.

The Yankees' 12 remaining games include two with Detroit and three with Washington beside the seven toughies against Boston.

Turley May Face Miller

Bob Turley will seek his 16th victory against the Tigers tomorrow and his opponent will be 20-year-old bonus boy Bob Miller, unless Detroit Manager Bucky Harris changes his mind.

Miller, recently recalled from Augusta of the Sally League where his victories includes a no-hitter, a one-hitter and a pair of three-hitters, has pitched only 5 2-3 innings with Detroit this year. He has no record. Used sparingly last year, he had only a 1-1 record. He held Mickey Mantle hitless in 24 times at bat last year. This season, Mantle faced him twice and batted a home run each time.

When asked if he had any objection to the Tigers starting the inexperienced Miller against the Yankees in such a vital game, Lopez smiled and said:

"None, if he beats them."

Most of the mica produced in the United States comes from the western part of North Carolina.

STILL SWINGING, but this time with a pick instead of a bat, Joe DiMaggio, former New York Yankee outfielder, breaks ground for a "Boys' Town" site near Rome, Italy. Looking on is Msgr. John Carroll Abbing, who is sponsoring the project. (International)

Mountain Top And Hercules Reach Finals

Shoot For Rifle Loop Title Sunday

Mountain Top and Hercules gunners copped wins in the Western Maryland Rifle League's first Shagnessy shoot-off match fired Sunday evening at the Frostburg range. The course of fire was 20 shots at 50 yards and 20 shots at 100 yards with telescopic sights.

Mountain Top crushed Fort Hill 1596-109x to 1954-112x. Don Helbig, Merle McClintock, and Carroll Miller all shot 400-possibles for the Garrett County winners. Possibles by Leo Leasure and Frank Simpson topped the Fort Hill effort.

Hercules whipped LaVale, 1597-124x to 1589-92x. High for the victors was Jim Grosh's 400-36x possible. Bill Smith tallied a 400-27x possible to head the losers.

Next Sunday the final shoot-off match will be fired. Mountain Top and Hercules will shoot over the Oakland range for the summer league championship and a leg on the TIMES-NEWS outdoor league trophy. LaVale and Fort Hill will be matched at Frostburg for runner-up position.

Market Edges Ahead For Fifth Straight Advance

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—For the fifth straight time, the Stock Market today edged into new high ground.

Steels, motors, and many individual issues provided the strength for today's move upward. A goodly number of minus signs provided a heavy brake on the rise.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents at $178.30. Last Tuesday, in the opening session of the week after Labor Day, the average reached up strongly for its first new high since the reaction that started July 25. Since then the market has been moving up in a hesitant manner.

The session at the start today was a rather dull affair. In the afternoon, the steels and motors came to life, and the individual stars began to shine.

General Motors up 3 1/2 at 134 had the help of good production forecasts while Chrysler up 1 1/2 at 88 had the benefit of a press preview today of its new models.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks with a gain of 20 cents at $178.30 got all its help from the industrial component, which advanced 60 cents. The railroads were down 10 cents and utilities dropped back 20 cents.

The Reynolds Metals "when issued" stock—recently split—topped the most active list on 46,300 shares, and it was followed by U.S. Steel up 1/4 at 60 1/2, Kaiser Aluminum up 1 1/2 at 40 1/2 and Phillips Petroleum up 1 1/2 at 75 1/2.

Rohm & Haas lost 10 at 360, and among other losers were Woodward Iron 3/4, United Aircraft 3/4, Zenith Radio 1 1/2, Kennecott Copper 1 1/2, Westinghouse Electric 3/4, New York Central 3/4, Baltimore & Ohio 3/4, and United Air Lines 3/4.

Chest Kickoff Meeting Slated Here Oct. 4

The kickoff meeting for the general campaign of the Cumberland Community Chest will be held in Central YMCA, Tuesday, October 4, at 6:30 p. m., Charles L. Kopp, general drive chairman, announced yesterday.

At a meeting of the drive leaders with Kopp, Robert E. Barnard, head of the classified section, reported his organization to solicit industrial and business firms is nearly completed.

He reported union leaders have endorsed the united Chest campaign which this year includes the Salvation Army. He also stated firms are providing payroll facilities to permit employees to contribute throughout the year to support the Community Chest.

Hal D. Barber, sales army chairman, and Dr. Lillian C. Compton, residential chairman, have set up their organization for the campaign to raise $125,974.06.

Dr. Compton's women's residential group will conduct a one-day canvass of the Cumberland area Tuesday, October 11. Her teams are staffed with enough women to cover all residents in the city on that one day.

The advanced gifts committee, with James W. Bishop as chairman, will have its kickoff and instruction meeting next Monday at 6:30 p. m. in the Green Room of Central YMCA.

In closing the meeting, Dr. Kopp impressed all campaign leaders with the necessity of complete coverage and increased giving as this year's goal is Cumberland's responsibility to raise in the support of its nine Red Feather agencies—Associated Charities, Salvation Army, Baby Welfare Society, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Jewish Welfare Society, Keating Day Nursery, Travelers Aid Society and Central YMCA.

Alley Dispute In North End Is Unsettled

The city will attempt again next Monday to find the answer to a petition asking for the re-opening of an alley on the west side of the 800 block of Columbia Avenue.

Residents have petitioned council for the reopening of the alley which was closed by Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz who said excavation in the rear of Bennett Storage warehouse made traffic hazardous.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum reported to council yesterday that as early as March, 1953, notice was made to Frank Bennett that excavations adjacent to the alley had endangered its support.

He said there are two problems. One involves erosion. In addition, rain and six cellar drains run into the Bennett property. It will never be feasible to rebuild the alley and the cost of building a sewer to a catch basin would be about $4,500.

Nuzum said that a low wall could be erected along the southerly edge so the alley can be made passable for traffic. He estimated curbing and wall to cost between $2,500 and $3,000.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan asked if Bennett had never excavated would the alley have been all right. Nuzum said in his opinion, that was right.

City Attorney Thomas B. Finan added that a city survey showed the excavation had encroached on public property but Bennett had denied this.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz noted he had given pipe and supervision to cover the drainage problem. The alley is unsafe in its present condition and the people are greatly inconvenienced, he said, adding the property owner has the responsibility of putting the property back into condition.

Finan suggested getting Bennett before council next Monday, and if no agreement is reached to let the court decide who is responsible.

Mayor Eves also directed Finan and Nuzum to have a joint report next Monday and petitioners were invited to attend the 9 a. m. pre-council meeting session.

B&O Trains Late Due To Wreck

Two of the B&O Railroad's crack passenger trains, the Capitol Limited and the Columbian, were running about one hour late when they arrived in Cumberland yesterday morning from the west.

The Columbian came in at 7:15 while the Capitol Limited came in at 7:30 a. m.

A derailment in the Tiffin, Ohio, section caused the delay.

Fall Rec Program Begins Sept. 17

The Cumberland Recreation Department will start its fall program this weekend with classes for twirling and a touch football league, according to Robert E. Pence, director.

The two programs will be conducted for the 13 public and parochial schools, with Fifth and Sixth graders taking part.

The twirling classes for girls will be taught by band majorettes from the local high schools, and will be supervised by Mrs. Eva Hogan of the Recreation Department staff. Girls will practice one evening each week after school and on Saturday mornings. The classes will continue for six weeks and will be climaxed by a twirling contest at Fort Hill stadium late in October. It will start Saturday morning.

Last year over 300 girls participated in the program. The top contest trophy was won by Johnson Heights School. Gephart won the best routine award, St. Mary's won the best appearance award, Pennsylvania Avenue won the best marching award, and Columbia Street won the uniformity award.

The touch football season for Fifth and Sixth Grade school boys will begin Monday, September 19 and continue for six weeks. Each team will play two games a week, one after school and another Saturday morning.

Last year's city and northern division champion was Columbia Street, which won its third consecutive grade school title. Carver won the southern grade school title, but lost to Columbia Street in the playoffs. Announcements will be made in each of the grade

Public School Enrollment Hits Total Of 15,790

Allegany County public schools had an enrollment of 15,790 pupils at the close of the first week of school, Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel reported yesterday.

That total as of last Friday represented a three-tenths of one per cent drop from the 15,844 reported on the corresponding day last year. Most of the decrease of 54 is in the elementary grades, down 48 from 8,561 to 8,513 this year. Junior high school enrollment is down only two, from 3,984 to 3,982 and the senior high change is a loss of only four, from 3,299 to 3,295.

Higgins expects the enrollment to increase, probably as much as 100 by September 30, and then gradually fall off during the rest of the year. He cited last year's figures to illustrate the point.

15,928 Is Peak

Last year the enrollment moved up 84 between the first week of school and September 30 to a peak of 15,928. Then it dropped off to 15,839 by November 30 and to 15,619 when schools closed last June 11.

First grade enrollment in the county public schools totaled 1,581 compared with 1,336 registered last April. A year ago the first grade counted 1,535 pupils.

Oddly, the peak grade enrollment is in the third grade, where 1,667 were registered as of last Friday. It then drops off appreciably in the fifth and sixth grades to 1,163 and 1,146, respectively. The next four higher grades have larger enrollments and then the figures taper off to 1,066 in the 11th grade and 1,012 in the 12th grade.

The enrollment by classes:

First grade, 1,481; second grade, 1,476; third grade, 1,667; fourth grade, 1,410; fifth grade, 1,163; sixth grade, 1,146; seventh grade, 1,341; eighth grade, 1,321; ninth grade, 1,320; 10th grade, 1,229; 11th grade, 1,066; 12th grade, 1,012, and special and shop students, 115.

Allegany and Flintstone are the only high schools with increased enrollment over a year ago. Most of the others are off slightly. Allegany has 1,542 students, compared with 1,525 a year ago while Flintstone is up from 225 to 230.

Other junior and senior high school enrollments, with this year's total and last year's figure listed in that order:

Figures Compared

Fort Hill, 1,906 and 1,916; Beall, 896 and 932; Bruce, 628 and 637; Mt. Savage, 466 and 485; Oldtown, 201 and 206; Valley, 739 and 757.

Although most of the elementary schools are off slightly in enrollment this year, a few reported increases. Among those with higher enrollment are Gephart, up from 269 to 287; Hill Street in Frostburg, advanced from 228 to 257; Johnson Heights, up from 442 to 469; Pennsylvania Avenue, up from 819 to 857; and Virginia Avenue, up from 238 to 270.

Some of this increase is the result of integration of Negro children into previously all-white schools but some of them have no Negro pupils.

Higgins also reported yesterday that the 254 Negro pupils in the county school system are now enrolled in 14 of the 33 schools in the county.

Carver School still has an enrollment of 109 pupils, about half of last year's total. Of that number 62 are in the elementary grades, 43 in junior high school and four in senior high school.

The other 145 Negro pupils are enrolled in previously all-white schools. Eighty-nine are in Cumberland schools, 52 in Frostburg and two each in Eckhart and Westport. Other schools have no Negro children.

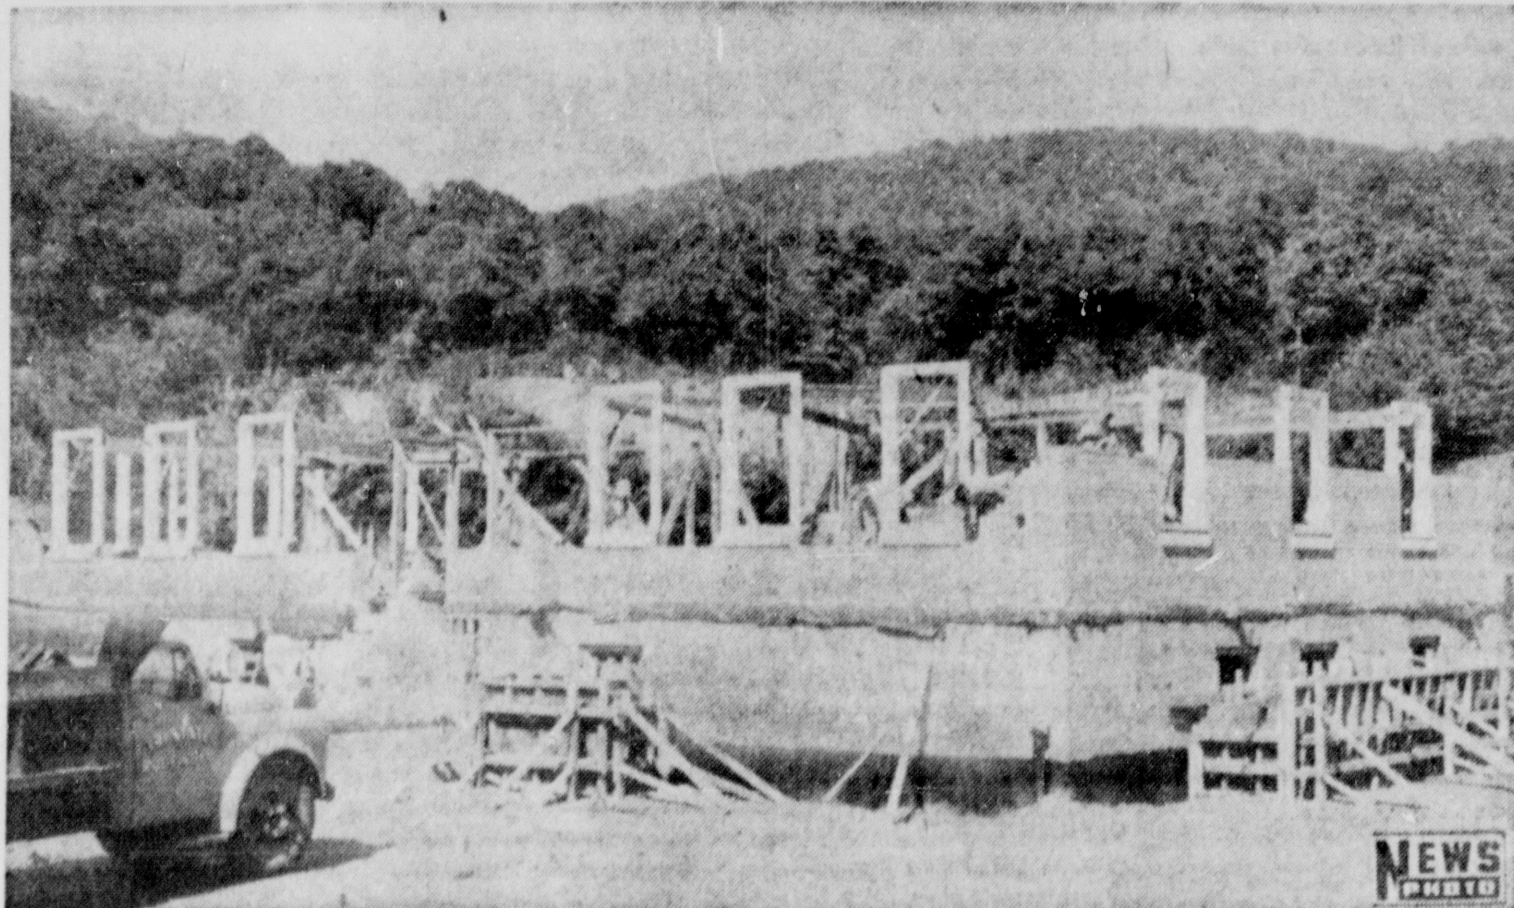

The Negro enrollment by schools:

Elementary schools—Hammond Street, Westport, one; Hill Street Frostburg, six; Beall Elementary, Frostburg, 19; Eckhart, two; West Side, five; Virginia Avenue, 34; East Side, 13; Centre Street, two; and Carver, 62; junior high school—Beall High, eight; Bruce High, one; Penn Avenue, four; Beall Elementary, nine; and Carver, 43; senior high school—Fort Hill, 14; Allegany, 17; Beall, 10; and Carver, four.

Penn Avenue School To Get Communication System

An inter-communication system which was installed in Pennsylvania Avenue School during the summer months will be presented formally to the school at the first meeting of the Penn Avenue PTA Thursday night in the school auditorium.

Miss Lula M. Blonsky, school principal, will accept the system from Reatus L. Spiker, last year's PTA president, and some member of the County Board of Education. The system includes a new public address system for the auditorium. Kenneth Mahaney, new PTA president, has called a meeting of the executive committee for 3:30 p. m. today. The committee includes Mrs. Bonnie Wolfe, hospital; Mrs. Eloise Early, member; Miss Mildred Beck, public

Police Barracks Work Progresses

This picture shows that work is progressing on the new State Police barracks being constructed along the north side of U. S. Route 40 in LaVale. Contractor for the job is the John I. Vandegrift Company. The building is expected to be under roof by late fall but is not expected to be completed until next spring. The basement floor includes a kitchen, dining room, chef's quarters and juvenile detention quarters. On the first floor will be offices for the barracks commander and troop commander, a communications room, interview room and another room where the troopers will prepare their reports. Bedrooms for the troopers will be situated on the second floor. The barracks will accommodate 21 troopers and four civilian employees.

Rev. Wolfe Will Speak At Communion Breakfast

Rev. Maurice J. Wolfe, Baltimore, archdiocesan director of the Junior Holy Name Society, will be guest speaker at the annual communion breakfast which will be sponsored by the Western Maryland Section of the Society Sunday, October 30.

Plans for the communion breakfast were completed

Sunday afternoon during a quarterly meeting of the WM Section at St. Patrick's Social Hall.

James Coyle, president, yesterday announced that the breakfast will follow 9:30 a. m. Mass at SS. Peter and Paul Church. It will be held in the social center of the parish.

Also present at Sunday's meeting was James J. McDonnell, archdiocesan president of the Holy Name Society, who pointed out that the national convention this year will be held at Pittsburgh, September 28-October 2.

Most Rev. John J. Wright, bishop of Worcester, Mass., will deliver the keynote address. The climax of the convention will be a procession of Holy Name men at which time some 150,000 participants are expected to be in the line of march.

This will be the sixth quadrennial convention of the Society. Also present at the meeting were Rev. John J. Griffith, Baltimore, archdiocesan director for Maryland, Rev. Wolfe, and Very Rev. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, rural dean of Western Maryland and pastor of St. Patrick's Church, host to the meeting.

Representatives from Holy Name societies of the three local churches were present as well as from St. Michael's in Frostburg; St. Joseph's, Midland; St. Mary's, Lonaconing; St. Peter's, Westernport; St. Peter's, Oakland; St. Ann's, Avilton; St. Stephen's, Grantsville; St. Patrick's, Mt. Savage; St. Ambrose's, Cresaptown; and St. Gabriel's, Barton.

An election of officers for next year will be held during the quarterly meeting slated December 11 at 2:30 p. m. at St. Michael's parish, Frostburg.

Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan yesterday said the department is seeking as many phonograph records as possible for what he terms, "a worthy cause," for an area institution.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker, working with Commissioner Keegan in the drive, has put notices on the bulletin of the four local fire stations.

Residents may leave the records, regardless of type, size, or condition, at any of the stations. Or residents with a large number on hand may telephone the stations and firemen will pick them up.

Commissioner Keegan said co-operation of the public will be appreciated.

Royal Arch Masons To Resume Meetings

Salem Chapter No. 18, Royal Arch Masons, will resume regular meetings this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Important business will be transacted and all members are urged to attend. Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Serving with Mahaney as officers are Mrs. Maxine Hudson, vice president; Mrs. Lena Kenny, secretary, and Edward Nield, treasurer.

At the Thursday night PTA meeting Miss Marion Hamilton will sing several selections, accompanied by Miss Patty Smith. Billy Boyer also will play some numbers on the accordion.

Old Bridge Repairs Supported

The move to repair the old stone arch bridge over Casselman River at Grantsville has drawn editorial support from the Baltimore Sun.

Last week the Cumberland Contracting Company submitted a low bid of $18,701 for repairs to the old bridge which was built in 1816 but has not been used by U. S. Route 40 traffic for about 20 years. The bid awaits approval of the State Board of Public Works.

The editorial which appeared in the Sun Sunday cited some of the history of the old National Road of Cumberland Road.

"It was in Jefferson's administration that the (national highway) plan gained headway," the editorial observed. "In 1806 Congress passed a bill to construct a Federal road from the navigable waters of the Atlantic to the Ohio River. The road was opened in 1820. The bridges were designed by Army engineers and were the wonders of their day."

"When Route 40 was widened, straightened and otherwise modernized a decade or so ago most of the old stone bridges were abandoned. But even if they no longer serve the highway system they are worth preserving as examples of the skill of our early engineers."

Area Youth To Enter 4-H Tractor Event

Sixteen-year-old George Bishoff, of Friendsville, winner of the Eighth Maryland 4-H tractor operator's contest at the Maryland State Fair, will represent the state at the 1955 regional 4-H tractor operator's contest at the Atlantic Rural Exposition in Richmond, Va., on September 27.

During the state fair, young Bishoff out-manuevered 18 other 4-H boys to take top honors. A member of the McHenry 4-H Club, Bishoff has carried a tractor program and a 4-H heifer project.

His club leader is Charles Rexrode. Placing fifth at the state fair was Jack Wilson, 15, of Midland.

Tax Payment Due This Thursday

For those who are paying 1954 state income tax on the quarterly basis Thursday, September 15, is the deadline for the payment of the third quarter installment.

Edward V. Welsh, manager of the local tax office, 9 Market Street, yesterday said the office hours are from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m.

Youths Accused Of Tying And Beating Boy

Will Get Hearings In Juvenile Court

Two local teen-age boys are scheduled for hearings in Juvenile Court this morning for allegedly tying up and injuring a nine-year-old boy who was later hospitalized.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital on Friday was Howard F. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jackson, 322 Necessity Street.

Last night the boy's condition was reported as "fair," but hospital attaches declined to comment on the nature or the extent of the boy's injuries.

Mrs. Jackson last night said the boy suffered possible internal injuries and that one of the two boys reportedly struck her son in the stomach.

She said she has been advised by a local physician to have the boy removed to Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore.

City Police Detective Thomas J. See said the Jackson boy was reported to have been tied up by the two older boys, who are 13 and 16 years of age, and placed in a boxcar on the railroad siding at the Buchanan Lumber Company.

A younger brother of the victim told his mother that Howard had been tied up, placed in the boxcar and the door closed behind him. City Police were called into the case late Thursday afternoon.

The following day the boy was taken to the local hospital. Detective See said Mrs. Jackson reported that her son had been struck during the incident.

Police last said night it was not known whether the cause of the boy's condition was due to the incident Thursday or to some other ailment.

College Lab Teacher's Book To Be Published

Miss Sherman Completes Volume

"Sharing and Planning," a book by Miss Ruth S. Sherman, second grade supervising teacher at the College Laboratory School in Frostburg, will be published this month by Exposition Press Inc., of New York City.

In her book Miss Sherman translates the meaning of democratic living in the classroom into specific instructional goals and a workable program. Writing for the beginning teacher, student teacher and education administrator, she has drawn on her many years of experience to help educators and parents to teach children the practical meaning of democracy.

The two words "sharing" and "planning" provide the key to her entire approach.

"People are by nature eager to learn," says the author. "Democracy is a way of life; it is expressed in the quality of living; it comes from within the people and is identified by the free, original, healthy behavior of the individuals."

"To maintain a tempo that is invigorating, challenging and pulsing with interest in living creatively," writes Miss Sherman, "the teacher needs a philosophy that provides freedom to experiment, adventure, think and explore—a philosophy that is positive, flexible and changing as experience enriches the teacher's quality of thought. The philosophy needs to be based on specific facts—facts substantiated through research."

A native of Ramona, S. Dak., Miss Sherman received her B. A. degree from Dakota University, her M. A. degree from the University of South Dakota and has done graduate work at the University of Maryland.

Her teaching experience has covered a wide range. She has been director of teacher training at Arkansas Polytechnic College, city supervisor of elementary schools in Richland, Wash., and Westwood Schools in Denver, Colo., and has taught in Mitchell, S. Dak.; Florida Southern College and Southern State Teachers College, Springfield, S. Dak.

A member of the National League of American Pen Women, the Maryland State Teachers Association, the American Association of University Women and the National Parent-Teacher Association, Miss Sherman is co-author of "The Birds of Killingworth," and author of "The Elephant's Child."

Miss Sherman lives at 61 Frost Avenue in Frostburg.
